INSURANCE MEN TO PROMOTE HEALTH

Companies Have 1,000,000 Men Available for Educational Campaign.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 .- The life insurance companies of the United States have a vast mine of original information that could be utilize to promote public health, and they have also an army of 100,000 trained men to make effective and widespread use of this information, according to Dr. Edwin W. Dwight of Boston, Mass., in his address before the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

For more than 60 years the life insurance companies of this country have been storing up ammunition and developing an organization which, if properly used, would be almost sufficlent in itself to turn the tide in the battle for public health in favor of the forces of scientific effort," he said.

80,000 Examiners.

After stating that the 40 companies doing business in the United States who are represented in the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors have 80,000 medical examiners and 20,-000 agents situated in every nook and corner of the country, Dr. Dwight confound in the medical department of lief insurance companies. "For over a year a committee of the medical directors' association has been developing plans for a collective in-vestigation of the experience of all American life insurance companies. If this material is so arranged and tabulated as to answer only those questions which are of immediate importance to life insurance, the companies will gain much; a value greatly beyond the cost, but not nearly all that they should. while the public will gain nothing...

"If, however, a bronder policy is pursued, a policy which will add nothing or little to the expense but greatly to its possibilities, a mass of material will become available, which, if prop-erly handled, will serve to settle once -and perhaps for all time-many of the most vexatious problems which are now disturbing the minds of those most interested in public health and preventive medicine.

"It is proposed in this work to cover the ground from 1870 to 1910, and in-clude the experience of all American life insurance companies. A conserva-tive estimate of the number of lives which will be investigated is 15,000,000 "It is perfectly possible to make all of this material available and to furnish a properly controled vehicle for its transmission to your forces in the field, and through them to the people in every portion of our country with-out an expenditure of one dollar of a
